Library Announces Database and Journal Cancellations

Due to yearly price increases and cuts in funding, during a time when all libraries are feeling the brunt of an economic downturn, the HAM-TMC Library has been forced to make the difficult decision to cancel a number of database and journal subscriptions.

A current list of cancelled databases is available at:

<http://resource.library.tmc.edu/resources/CancelledAnnouncement.cfm>

For a complete list of Journals Cancelled by the Library, go to:

OvidSP Default Changed to Advanced OVID Search

If you have been searching Medline, PsycInfo, Books@Ovid, Journals@Ovid FullText or any other OvidSP databases, you may have noticed the search default has been changed from Basic to Advanced.

We think this is a better way for our users to take advantage of the advanced features of Ovid, such as the use of special search syntax to combine search terms or develop a search.

Examples of Advanced mode search options:

- Map search terms to Medical Subject Headings (MeSH)
- The adjacent operator ADJ retrieves records with search terms next to each other. In OvidSP, the default operator when entering more than one term is adjacency, so simply separate terms with a space
- Limited truncation ($) while searching cell or cell$, or unlimited truncation while searching rat or rat$
- Use of mandated wildcards(#) for searching wom#n
- Optional wildcards (?) can be used within or at the end of a search term to substitute one or no characters: colo?r retrieves color and colour
