Changing the Face of Medicine Exhibit

The Exhibit Changing the Face of Medicine: Celebrating America's Women Physicians will be on display at the Library until June 6, 2008. Stop by the Library to view the exhibit featuring women's successful quest to become doctors and be introduced to outstanding physicians from across the United States.

Women in Early Texas Medicine

The exhibit Women in Early Texas Medicine features women physician pioneers in the state of Texas. They registered with the Texas State Board of Medical Examiners, supplying information on their education as well as a photograph. The earliest exhibited physician's birthdate is 1852.

The exhibit features early physicians of various ethnicities, as well as a sample Board application. Women in Early Texas Medicine is a companion exhibit to the national traveling exhibit Changing the Face of Medicine: Celebrating America's Women Physicians.

New Look for PubMed

The National Library of Medicine will be introducing new PubMed searching and displaying features in the coming weeks. One of the changes will be the removal of the blue sidebar menu from the Summary results screen of some databases to provide space for forthcoming features.

Users will be able to access the sidebar from the PubMed homepage.

More information will be available in the coming weeks.
