EXPLANATORY

We often experience difficulty in interpreting orders sent us without complete specifications. Much loss of time and expense are the result. For your benefit and ours we suggest that, when ordering you give the complete name, the number and size (if several sizes) of the item.

When no directions for the manner of shipment accompany an order we ship it by the means of transportation which seems best, in our judgment.

It is our aim to give the best possible service, and we solicit your continued patronage.

INTRODUCTORY

In issuing this catalogue we are compelled by uncertain trade conditions to omit prices from the body matter and to add a separate, loose price list which may be changed from time to time to meet necessity. Prices cannot be made permanent at this time and must be changed, often without notice being given our customers.

The catalogue is to serve as a reference by which customers may make their wants known to us specifically so that we may be able to give intelligent and satisfactory service.

We find it impractical to include in one catalogue the large lines, such as hospital furniture, X-Ray apparatus, etc., but invite correspondence when such equipment is required and will send complete literature upon request.
